We believe people should be able to obtain information about our firm, legal services, educational resources, appointments, and digital products without unnecessary barriers.

OUR ACCESSIBILITY EFFORTS

As part of our ongoing efforts, we seek to improve accessibility by considering recognized accessibility practices, including the Web Content Accessibility Guidelines, when reasonably applicable to our website and available technology.

Accessibility work may include efforts to:

- Provide meaningful headings and page structure;
- Add alternative text to informative images;
- Maintain readable color contrast and text sizing;
- Improve keyboard navigation;
- Label forms and interactive controls;
- Use descriptive links and buttons;
- Provide captions, transcripts, or alternative formats when reasonably available;
- Identify and correct accessibility barriers; and
- Consider accessibility when adding or revising website content.

ONGOING PROCESS

Website accessibility is an ongoing process. Technology, content, third-party applications, and accessibility standards continue to change.

Some portions of the website may depend on third-party platforms, embedded applications, payment systems, scheduling tools, document viewers, social-media services, or other technology that Hampton Law Firm does not fully control.

The presence of this statement does not mean that every page, feature, document, or third-party service will be free from accessibility barriers at all times. We welcome notice of a specific problem so that we can evaluate available alternatives and reasonable improvements.
